Dr. V. GEETHALAKSHMI

Vice Chancellor

Tamil Nadu Agricultural University, Coimbatore

Dr. Vellingiri Geethalakshmi is an accomplished researcher on climate change, crop modelling and crop insurance. She was instrumental in designing PG degree programs in Agrometeorology and establishing a world class Agro Climate Research Centre at TNAU through obtaining >23 projects (Rs. 60 Crores). She played a key role in installing 385 automatic weather stations in Tamil Nadu and introducing Weather Forecasting and Customized Weather Advisory to the farmers. She improvised these pipelines and launched Village Level Weather Forecasting MobileApp. Her contributions in evolving three nutri - cereal varieties and eight Agro -Technologies, not only ensured economic security of the farmers, but also ensured nutritional security. Her contribution in preparing the policy documents viz., State Action Plan on Climate Change, Drought policy and India's Science-Technology-Innovation-Policy is appreciated at national level. She has guided 20 Master's, 17 Doctoral and 4 Post-Doctoral researchers.

She imparted technical skills to >10,000 farmers, >500 Scientists, >250 Irrigation Engineers on Climate - Change adaptation and upscaled climate smart technologies in >10000 hectares. These achievements positioned her as the First Woman Vice Chancellor of SAU in India. As a Vice Chancellor, she has successfully implemented blended learning program, Sandwich Degree Programs, Drone Applications in Agriculture, FPO adoption and online sales portal (www.tnauagricart.com).
